The Caring Community Foundation (CCF) Announces 2019 Scholarships Available

“We want to invest in our youth, as they are the future of our communities,” explained board chairman, Jay Rezac, “scholarships help us do that and we are proud to help our area students.”

All CCF scholarships honor special intentions or celebrate an individual’s life. Some of their stories are shared here. The Bruce Wayne Stallard Scholarship is in memory of a bright young music student at KU who was killed by a drunk driver on Easter morning. Community HealthCare System has a new scholarship for students, from communities served by CHCS Family Practice Clinics, who are pursuing a career in healthcare. Walter Byers was the first executive director of the N.C.A.A. and left many legacies, including a scholarship to assist students in Northeast Kansas.

The Caring Community Foundation is honored to assist area students and scholarship donors. 2019 opportunities are listed below. Scholarships vary in amount, renewability, and include criteria such as geographic area, specific high school, and/or area of study. Applications are available from high school counselors and are due in mid-April. More information is available online at ccfks.org and from area high school counselors.
